The Diocese of Carúpano, on the coast of Venezuela, was established in April 2000. This young diocese's mission is to strengthen the faith of young adults by establishing a vocational center for recreation, prayer, and development as disciples of Christ. Weekend conferences offer young people opportunities to learn devotions, share their faith with peers, discern God's will in their lives, and discover their vocational call. With support from the Collection for the Church in Latin America, the diocese equips young people to be active, faithful disciples who develop their talents for lives of service in the states of life to which God calls them.
